INTRODUCTION

The intent of this publication is not to replace Tony Dunn's excellent "A Catalog of the .22 Boxes of the U.S.A." but to provide clearer, colorized box images for better identification. With the age of computers we now have the abilities that Tony and his associates did not have when the original catalog was created during the B&W typewriter and photocopier era.

Along the way I have made some additions to the original version with some boxes that were not available. This is always presented in RED text. Also, an attempt was made to correct spelling and grammar errors when found. In the interest of clarity for identification boxes are NOT presented to scale. I've made each box as big as possible and still fit in the allotted space on each page. Images from the Internet may not be as clear as those that were scanned from actual boxes in our collections.
