CZECHOSLOVAKIA

INTRODUCTION

As so many other old world countries, the Czechs have a long history of producing ammunition. The production from these countries has been interrupted by various wars. However, these producers manage to remain in existence and many are still selling .22s today.

PRAGO EXPORT. This is an exporter who does not produce their own .22s. The only specimens known today were all exported to Canada in the late 1970s and the boxes have a Canadian address. See Prago of Canada

SELLIER & BELLOT. Offices are in Praha. This manufacturer was formed in 1825 and first started producing rimfires approximately 1864. .22s were probably first produced in the 1890s. While the production of 22s was interrupted by World War II they are still producing today (2013).

Also see the Sellier & Bellot section of the German listing for the products of the Schonebeck plant in what now id East Germany.
